

This is a public service announcement. I realize this is a lot more serious than I thought it was. Most people weren't taking it seriously, or even if people were, they were understandably uncomfortable. The way he had made himself look on social media is embarrassing, and when I realized it was him, I was very sad about it. I can't dwell on the past, and I have to protect my energy.

Please don't bother anyone mentioned in this report. The person mentioned in this journal has severe mental health issues and needs professional help. Honestly, it would be best if they just stayed off social media for a while for their mental well-being, because clearly what they're doing isn't helping them.

This was just to spread awareness, that's all. I'll be cleaning up this journal a bit more, and I think it'll be finished by the end of April. It will be in chronological order by then. I'm sorry it's so messy at the moment. I'll also be writing about how off-putting it felt about not just Alfirune but his website and why I left it.

I just want to close the book on this. It's really stupid, honestly. He keeps making accounts. Yeah, I don't have proof about the sexual harassment allegations, and this is just from what I remember from what he told me himself, mind you, but the fact that he keeps making accounts to stalk people is telling enough. No matter how hurt someone is, it's not okay to bother people to death. It's wrong.

He isn't in his right mind. He made seven accounts so far; there's probably more he made just to stalk, harass, monitor, and obsess over people to make him feel powerful. It's been ten years, and I lost access to my old accounts, so I don't have any screenshots or anything, but he is obsessed to the point it's unhealthy... That alone is dangerous.

Also, recently I was added to another dumb Bluesky moderation list called red flags, and it's just me and some other girl who used to be friends with him so far. Y'all can see a screenshot of it in the gallery that's linked below, next to the screenshots that are further down.

I now realize why he is doing this. He is clearly bitter and unhappy. It's a last attempt to spite people who hurt him in the past. Honestly, it wasn't my intention, but I seriously didn't feel comfortable around him at all anymore. After a while, it felt more and more tense. Just not fun.

I can see why he doesn't really have any friends (At least not in the online space), and I'm afraid that if this keeps up, it'll affect his real-life friendships because this bad behavior is pretty gross. It gets more and more concerning as time goes on, and I'll be reporting here for a while if I have anything new to add. There isn't much to say at this point.

I move on with my life. I don't make a ton of accounts to stalk people and be creepy. Who has the time for that? Someone who doesn't have a life, that's what. Everyone I talked to, even people I don't know, thinks he is a creep with just this information alone. He isn't making himself look good doing this. If he has even an ounce of decency, he would just move on, but nope. I'll just keep blocking and ignoring because this is ridiculous...

Note: They're an artist, but instead of working on art, they have resorted to stalking, cyberbullying, and name-calling. This person is now on my blacklist. They're clearly not a good person.

They clearly have mental health issues, but it doesn't make it right to do this. They need therapy. If they had messaged me privately and left people alone, I would not have needed to do this, but they left me no choice. It's really sad how things turned out. It really didn't need to end up like this.

I wasn't gonna do this, but after some thought, I'm working on an artist beware for Alfirune/Goldarwintea/Alfirune Aacicodts. After talking to some friends, people need to be aware of this person. So some years ago, I used to be friends with this person. Actually it was ten years ago.

It's really creeping me out how long ago it was, and it actually made me feel very unsafe, how long this person was stalking me.

I used to have a Deviantart account called Crypticmachine/Azurewhiterose, and since moving to Azurewhitewind in 2016, I wasn't friends with this guy by that point. I did remember messaging him that I didn't want to be in his sit,e it's called: AiraayArt.net I checked the site, and it's down.

That being said, this guy would be inappropriate, depressed, and in a tough spot, and so was I. I mean, I lost my dad and was grieving at the time.

I didn't talk about that stuff really with this guy. He was a creep. He would make sexual harassment jokes and would touch people without their consent jokingly, but it was still iffy because why would he tell me that after I told him how that stuff makes me uncomfortable was just off-putting...

I was disgusted. So, I left this guy alone. Now he is bothering me again after ten years. Beware of this creepy guy. I realize I had a lot of bad friends back then. I'm doing better now, though, and it's funny since I'm doing better. It's like that isn't allowed.

Here are the links to the bluesky accounts... <https://clearsky.app/alfirune.bsky.social/history>
<https://clearsky.app/goldarwintea.bsky.social/history>
<https://clearsky.app/rocruzhiyo.bsky.social/history>. If he had left me alone, I wouldn't have needed to do this, but he brought this on himself. He needs to be held accountable. Also, this is the much ruder version.

People tell me the Neocities version is way too nice tbh. Well, at least the truth is out there, that's all Imma say. Funny how he says this version is malicious, when it wasn't even that bad compared to what he wrote about me and Alwaysjmb.

Using Clearsky so y'all can see his bad behavior when he was on here a month ago. His main account, which I can see he blocked me on November 11th, so I couldn't have messaged on his main account, which is strange and concerning behavior. He stirred the pot, and this is what he got. I'm afraid that if he doesn't stop doing this, it's sadly just going to get worse. I don't think this is something anyone should be known for.

I'm making this an artist beware in case he comes back. Because after being stalked for ten years, I don't think he is just gonna up and leave that easily. Stay safe, y'all, and please be vigilant when making friends online. I'm putting this up here so people can learn from my mistakes. I had low self-esteem and didn't know that I was worth something back then, but I'm worthy.

I had a lot of bad friends growing up, but I'm doing better now, and this guy did this out of spite instead of trying to do better. Going forward from now on, I will call people out if they're clearly dangerous.

This isn't normal, and it's concerning behavior. This goes way out of the scope of just petty revenge. I think generally he needs professional help. There's a stigma still for sure with mental health, and I think this needs to be talked about more. I know it's not easy to talk about, but I think everyone should have these conversations more.

Update as of February 5th, 2025: Alfirune has made a 4th account to stalk people with on Bluesky called Alfirunes. I recommend just blocking it and not engaging. I found this when I was making a moderation list on Bluesky. I know Bluesky must have its hands tied since there have been a lot of trolls on there lately. I hope they can hire more staff soon. Until then, all we can do is block and report to stay safe. With how long this has gone on for, there could be yet a 5th account somewhere.

This is insane, and I can't believe how far this guy has fallen. It's important to stay safe online, and it's insane what I've been dealing with in the last few months, but I won't give up on posting art and such. I won't let someone stop me from posting. I've been on Deviantart for nine years, and I indeed tend to be here for far longer. I will be updating this from now on if there's anything new and if I'm informed of anything else.

Update as of March 21st, 2025: I had to get my evidence backed up because I can see either that finally Bluesky deleted his burner accounts or that he did it himself. For everyone's safety, I'm keeping up what I have. Here are some screenshots that I saved here.

I also have a video in the making that I'm working on. I understand if people want to know something, but this is just not the way to do it. Threatening someone for information instead of politely messaging them privately doesn't sit right with me, and I won't let this slide. It's one thing if he tries to do better, and honestly, I'll see with time. It's still a crime what he did. He went overboard with what he is doing instead of moving on with his life.

Losing friends, and for understandable reasons at that. It's one thing to be upset and grieving over a friendship, I get that. But the way he was back then, and now, isn't right. Hopefully, I can close the book on this and won't have to update this anymore because I would rather not, but for my own safety, I had to. Sometimes calling people out is the only way to stop their bad behavior...

He was creepy then and is creepy now. This isn't how to act... I don't know if he is just not aware of what he is doing or if he is being an awful person on purpose... Either way, it's not right, and I hope not for just his own sake but for those around him that he stops this behavior. It's not only uncomfortable, but it can be dangerous if it gets worse. Left unchecked, it can really ruin people's lives...

Update as of June, 21st, 2025 I wasn't going to go to the public with a video on this whole thing because not only it's exhausting and it takes a lot out of me, but it's just been anxiety inducing to even think of this person, and I thought it would be better to just forget about them. I'm pretty good at that since I forgot about them that whole time.

But it has gone too far. Two black queer women being stalked out of nowhere is concerning. It feels like sexism and a combination of racism because he left Bonsu alone, it seems, but he continues to stalk me and the other woman I mentioned. I never even knew who Alwaysjmb was until this whole thing was happening, or even Bonsu, either. Just because someone is gay doesn't mean they're good people. And I'm realizing more and more about these issues in the queer community.

He is a hater, toxic, and sorry ass. He acts like a troglodyte with a keyboard. It got pretty serious once it was implied that he wished everything bad should happen to me, so I got in touch with his ex-friends, and they told me similar stories. So, I feel that I did the right thing because more than one person was saying the same thing, pointing out his centrist views, racism, and lack of compassion for others.

I didn't say anything about it because, honestly, it was none of his business, but I also didn't know what he was talking about at first, and the fact that he was yelling on the street (Public website) was embarrassing. I hate it when people yell at me. Maybe he didn't want to come off that way, but those four replies he sent me were pretty rude. Since then, I started to feel unsafe being online in public. I felt like I was feeling overly paranoid, but this is a huge issue on Bluesky to the point that this person started to stalk my other social media accounts when I didn't use Bluesky as much.

This sucks because Azurewhitewind is my passion; it was a way to get away and start over with everything that I dealt with. I had this username for almost ten years, and I'm keeping it. I'm not gonna let anyone snuff out what I have. This whole thing is reminding me of the Creepshowart and Shino situation. I'll link the document about Shino as well in the description.

I recommend buying a journal and writing y'all's personal thoughts in it so it can be less tense. Also, just listening to music or meditation music can help a whole lot.
